RATE OF ONE HUNDRED MILES AN HOUR MADE IN RACE FOR THE VANDERBILT CUP.

Many Exciting Scenes

And One Fatal Accident Are Witnessed Along the Thirty Mile Course.

Seventeen Machines Started

And Only Seven Remained in the Race at the End of the Seventh Lap. French Driver Had Two Narrow Escapes at Railroad Crossings.

HEATH THE WINNER.

New York, 1:16 p. m.—Heath, an American with an imported machine, wins the race and the W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., cup, by one minute and thirty-six seconds, and it is believed that many records are broken. Heath made the tenth and last round in 27 minutes and 5 seconds. Albert Clement won second and Little, third.

New York, Oct. 8.—Clement protested the decision of the judges declaring Heath the winner of the race. The decision was withdrawn and the protest will be heard and the winner declared at a meeting of the automobile association later in the day.

New York, Oct. 8.—The machines to finish first and second in the race were imported 90-horse power cars. The third was a 24-horse power machine of American make.

New York, Oct. 8.—Promptly at six o'clock this morning the first car shot away from Westbury, Long Island, in the 30-mile automobile race for the Vanderbilt cup. The racers started two minutes apart and of the eighteen racing machines entered for the contest, 17 of them started. One fatal accident and many equally exciting incidents occurred during the race and at the end of the seventh lap of the thirty-mile course only seven machines remained in the race. Thousands of spectators witnessed the race from the grand stand erected at the starting point and from other points all along the course which had to be covered ten times by the contestants who finished. The course is an elongated triangle, at the apex of which to the west is the village of Queens. There were two controls on the course, one at Hicksville, 40 miles in length, and the other at Hempstead, 1.40 miles long. Every contestant had to take three minutes to go through the Hicksville control and six minutes to go through the Hempstead control.

As Wallace's car, No. 18, rounded the turn at Jericho on the first lap of the race, it was seen to be in trouble. It stopped about 150 yards beyond the turn and it was then learned that the machine had fed too much oil and the engine had become clogged. Tony Antony, an Italian, who was acting as assistant to driver, Wallace, got out to remedy the trouble and when every thing was in order again Wallace started the machine again and Tony made a flying leap to board it again. He missed his footing and went under the rear wheels of the car. Another Italian who was in a repair tent close to the track saw the mishap and rushing out, leaped aboard the car which went off with a rush and was quickly out of sight. Antony was carried into the repair tent and a physician who was present examined him. It was found that no bones were broken and that he was not seriously hurt.

E. R. Thomas' car driven by Hawley, had a narrow escape from disaster while making a quick turn on a rocky hill road at Queens on the first lap. It swerved off the road wildly, ran up on the grass plot along the road and crashed into a big tree, by less than a foot. Hawley quickly guided the machine back into the road and it sped away on its journey.

At Mineola, Gabriel's car flashed across the Long Island railroad track almost directly in front of a moving train, missing the pilot of the engine by less than thirty feet. The speed of the machine was so great that it dashed across the rails in safety.

Gabriel, who led at the end of the first lap, maintained his advantage in the second, covering the course the second time at an average speed of 62 miles an hour. The end of the third lap also saw the French driver leading the procession, but in the next round Heath's car, No. 7, shot to the front leading Gabriel by a little more than four minutes.

In one circuit of the course Heath experienced considerable hard luck, taking 48:11 to cover the course. Technically this meant a loss of seventeen points to the leader and left Clement lacking only ten points of the leading position. At that point Heath and Clement were well in the lead and both were pushing their cars to the utmost.

The first serious accident of the race occurred on the street between the turn at Queens and Westbury when the tires slipped from Arent's machine and he and his assistant, Carl Muescher, were thrown violently to the ground. Arents was not seriously injured but the chauffeur was badly hurt. Both were taken to a hospital at Mineola, where Muescher died later.

Gabriel had a second thrilling escape from a collision with a train. This time it was at Queens. A passenger train had stopped at the station and unloaded its passengers and had received the signal to go ahead. The station is only about 100 feet from the roadway. On receiving the signal that the track was clear, the engineer started up and the locomotive had reached the middle of the race course when Gabriel's car rushed down the road. A shout went up from the crowd gathered at the crossing and the signal was waved frantically to the engineer to back the train. The lever was promptly reversed and as the locomotive slowly backed off the course the machine flashed by, missing the cow-catcher by less than two feet.

Heath's bad luck pursued him. In the seventh round his tire was punctured at Queens almost the spot where Gabriel got in trouble a few minutes before. Clement continued to gain and drove his machine at its highest speed in an effort to cut down the lead held by Heath. An explanation of the many mishaps at the Jericho turn pike came to light, when Owens, a chauffeur, found a large quantity of nails scattered along the course a short distance below the grand stand. Many pieces of broken glass also were found in the road at this point.

Heath suffered a long delay as a result of his accident on the seventh round and before his broken tire had been replaced Clement had taken the lead. The eighth round was covered by Clement in 33:05 and he flashed past the grand stand with a clear advantage of fourteen minutes over Heath, his nearest competitor. At that time Gabriel's machine was still reported in trouble and it was thought he was hopelessly out of the race.

Up to that point the leader had maintained an average speed of about sixty miles an hour, when the areas of control are deducted. This speed had been maintained including curves and other dangerous places where it was necessary to reduce speed to a minimum. Figuring these deductions the leader has at times made ninety miles an hour on level and straight stretches and some experts say that he has passed the grand stand at Westbury at the phenomenal speed of 100 miles an hour.

ANY COMPROMISE OUT OF QUESTION.

Russian Official Paper Declares War Must Be Prosecuted So That There Can Be no Renewal of Struggle.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 8.—Replying to the statement of Count Okuma, leader of the Japanese progressive party, that war with Russia would be long, but that Japan would win in the end, the Novoe Vremya this morning declares that the idea of a possible compromise with Japan has been abandoned, and that war must be prosecuted by Russians in such a way that there can be no possibility of Japan's renewing the struggle. It said: "If we conclude peace with Japan, all our efforts in the far East would be valueless."

STALWARTS BADLY BEATEN.

LaFollette Will Control Nominations in County Convention by a Good Majority.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 8.—Nearly complete returns from the republican caucuses in Milwaukee indicate that the LaFollette organization will control the nominations in the county convention by a good majority. Besides this, the control of the county organization is lost to the "Stalwarts." This is a complete change in the situation which has existed for years.

BULLETIN.

Cincinnati, Oct. 8.—Samuel Wackley, of Canton, Ohio, a non-union moulder who was shot last night by William Patten, alias Friend, of the striking moulders, whose place Wackley had taken, died today, and the charge of murder has been made against Patten.

London, Oct. 8.—Harry Marks, chief owner of the Financial News of this city, and a former New York newspaper man, has been elected to represent the Isle of Thanet in the house of commons, though by a greatly reduced majority, succeeding the late James Lowther. The figures were: Marks (conservative), 4,041; King (liberal), 3,662.

The campaign was marked by violent personalities throughout. The dissident unionists, led with the liberals in appealing to the electors to uphold the principle of the integrity of public life, rather than party success. The liberals, however, claim that although many of their party abstained from voting, no great number of dissident unionists carried the seal for purity in public life to the extent of voting for Mr. King.

SUDDENLY DEATH CAME.

Prominent South Carolinian, and Former U. S. Senator, Dies on His 78th Birthday.
Washington, Oct. 8.—A special to the Post from Garysburg, N. C., says: "Matthew W. Ransom, formerly United States senator from this state, and the only American minister to Mexico, died suddenly at his residence in Gotham, at 1 o'clock this morning. Owing to the absence of his wife and daughter, who are in the mountains, funeral arrangements have not yet been made. Today was his 78th birthday."

INEZ SMITH WAS POISONED.

Chemist So Reported to Coroner Burk. Stomach Contained Knock-out Drops.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 8.—"Inez Smith was poisoned," said Coroner T. A. Burk today, after he received the report of Chemist Solomon, who analyzed the stomach of the woman found in a trunk in the lake, September 15th. Prof. Solomon said the woman's stomach contained large quantities of chloroform or knock-out drops. Vomit found in room at 5 Blee Court, where the murder was committed, contained this drug. Smith, the woman's husband, has not been located. As soon as Chief Kosler heard the coroner's report, he issued fresh orders to the police to redouble their efforts to get Smith.

CHICAGO DAY AT THE FAIR.

St. Louis, Oct. 8.—"Chicago Day" was observed at the World's fair today by immense throngs of residents of that city, reinforced by thousands of St. Louis citizens. The first event of an elaborate program was the official visit of Mayor Harrison of Chicago, the Chicago day committee and President Francis and the officers of the exposition. A procession was then formed and the visiting officials were escorted to the Illinois world's fair pavilion, where the formal exercises of Chicago day were held.

BIG BALANCE TO ITS CREDIT.

New York Bank Breaks All Records. Believed to Foreshadow Big Transaction.

New York, Oct. 8.—Bank officers down town were much interested today in the tabulated statement of the clearing house banks, in which it was shown that the National bank of Commerce has a balance to its credit for the day of $17,426,000. This is a record-breaking figure. No explanation was vouchsafed by the officials of the Commerce, but in other quarters the huge balance was believed to foreshadow some important financial transaction.

CAMPAIGN WAS MARKED

By Violent Personalities, But Former American Journalist Won Race for Office.

London, Oct. 8.—Harry Marks, chief owner of the Financial News of this city, and a former New York newspaper man, has been elected to represent the Isle of Thanet in the house of commons, though by a greatly reduced majority, succeeding the late James Lowther. ## HER WISH GRANTED.

Woman Delegate to Peace Conference Creates a Sensation.

She Had Her Heart Gladdened

When at Her Request the Representatives of Russia and Japan Shook Hands and Passed Cordial Greetings. Resolutions to Investigate Congo Free State.

Boston, Oct. 5.—The International Peace Congress assembled today for the closing session of its thirteenth annual meeting. President Paine, seeing that representatives of all the great nations had been given an opportunity to respond, introduced Jiro Abratani, of Tokio, to speak for Japan.

Mr. Abratani, in the course of his remarks said he was willing to admit that militarism was on the increase in Japan but, he declared, there was good ground for expectation that when the present conditions were brought to an end, peace would be the moving spirit of the nation.

Dr. Pohn Chirug, delegate for Russia, asked for a moment to correct a statement made yesterday by John Burrows, of England, and this was granted. As Dr. Chirug passed to the platform, where Mr. Abratani was sitting, a woman delegate arose, and said: "Dr. Chirug, it would gladden my heart to see you shake hands with Mr. Abratani, Russia and Japan, in friendly clasp."

"I should be most happy," the Russian answered, as he moved toward the Japanese, and warmly seized his hand, saying: "I am glad to greet a yellow man."

When Dr. Chirug had concluded his statement the committee on questions of the day reported resolutions in favor of an investigation into the present government of the Congo Free State. The resolutions embodied three questions:

First, Is the government of the Congo Free State still to be regarded as the trustee of the powers which recognize the flag of the International association?
Second, Is the Belgian government to be regarded as responsible for the actions of the Congo Free State?
Third, In either of these events, what is the position of the Congo Free State in international law, and in what manner may the grave questions concerning its alleged actions be satisfactorily and competently determined?

METHODS ADOPTED

By Republican Campaign Committee Show They Are Worried Over

The Situation in Rhode Island.

Unity in Democratic Party, and Factionalism in Republican Party Concerning National Issues, and Administration's Foreign Policy, Given as Reasons.

Esopus, N. Y., Oct. 8.—Governor L. F. C. Garvin, of Rhode Island, spent the morning with Judge Parker in a discussion of political affairs in his state. He gave to the presidential candidate an exhaustive report of what is being done in the campaign by both democrats and republicans and what he believed to be needed to enable his party to conduct a more effective canvass. He said that factionalism in the democratic party had been eliminated; that there are defections in the republican party concerning national issues and the foreign policy of the present administration. These he said place Rhode Island in the doubtful column and give the democrats a good fighting chance of carrying it for Parker and Davis as well as for the state ticket.

"Methods adopted by the republican campaign committee show that they are worried over the situation," said the governor. "The committee has engaged, every hall, large enough to conduct a political meeting in for every night except Sundays from now until election day. If we hold an indoor meeting it must be on Sunday and we don't like to do that. We may have to resort to tent meetings entirely. I believe the action of the republicans will react on the party. We have one congressman now and I think we will elect the other. We are making a fight to carry the legislature against Senator Aldrich."

Governor Garvin had not previously met Judge Parker. He telegraphed from St. Louis, where he attended the ceremonies at the exposition on Rhode Island day and made the appointment to see the judge. In connection with his visit it was learned that an understanding exists between the democratic national committee and the central committees of all doubtful states whereby state candidates will divide their time so as to aid in furthering the interests of the national election.

POPE GAVE AGIUS A PRIVATE AUDIENCE.

Rome, Oct. 8.—As the pope wished to see Archbishop Agius, the apostolic delegate to the Philippines, again, before his departure for the United States and the Philippines the pontiff received him today in private audience and gave the delegate his last instructions and recommendations concerning the pending Catholic questions which are to be settled at Manila.

LABORING MEN OF MONTANA ENDORSE

Parker and Davis Electoral Ticket. Chairman Taggart Says That It Means Democratic Success in That Mountain State.

New York, Oct. 8.—Chairman Taggart, of the democratic national committee, received a despatch from Montana today stating that the labor organizations of the state had endorsed the Parker and Davis electoral ticket, which, Mr. Taggart says, means the electoral vote of Montana for the democratic ticket.

Senator Patterson, of Colorado, is scheduled to speak all next week in Utah and Montana, after which he will return to Colorado. Senator Bacon, of Georgia, will spend next week in Illinois, making speeches at the principal points in that state. Senator Tillman will also be in Illinois.

PEABODY MAKING USE OF THE LETTER

Dick Sent Him, Asking Him to Speak in Ohio, and Which Dick Says Was Only Sent as Complimentary.

Columbus, O., Oct. 8.—Although Governor Peabody of Colorado will not speak in Ohio this campaign, he is making use of state Chairman Dick's letter of invitation in his own campaign in Colorado. Governor Peabody has given to the Colorado press the copy of Dick's letter. Dick states that he does not expect Peabody to come to Ohio and the invitation was but the complimentary form which was sent to every republican governor in the United States.

said George, veiled with this possibility.

"But you asked me not to."

"Only because I fear, with your weak nature, that one question will lead to another until the whole of my private affairs will come to light. I don't want those to be known at Scotland Yard, for alone the chance that I might be accused of the crime."

"Oh, that's ridiculous! You could not have left the sitting room unless I had let you out, and there is no door from your bedroom."

"That is true enough," answered Brendon, with an ironical smile, the significance of which was lost on Train. "But if the whole of my story came to light you might be accused of helping me to get rid of the woman."

"I?" Leonard's hair almost rose on end. "How could I be mixed up in this?"

"Well, see here," argued Brendon, who thought it just as well to make Train's own safety depend upon the discretion of too free a tongue. "I tell you about this house, and on my recommendation you come here. I come to stop with you and reveal my reasons for coming. These have to do with the possession of a secret by the murdered woman. All that to a policeman would be suspicious. What would be easier than for me to go down the stairs and, when the woman refused to confess as to my legitimacy, to stab her? Then I could return to my bed, and you could prove an alibi on my behalf by your tale of having looked the sitting room door."

Train shuddered. "I see how easily we can get into trouble. I shall say nothing. I wish I had not come here. I shall go ahead until all blows are over."

"I am going to see Dorothy," said Brendon, and told her that there is no chance of our marriage. Nor is there, for I cannot see my way to prove my legitimacy. We must part, and I shall probably go down the country for six months or so to finish my novel and to get rid of my headache."

Train remained silent, looking at the ground. Then he glanced at his friend in a doubtful way. "What has become of your yellow holly?"

Brendon produced it from his pocket. "It withered. I took it out of my coat and put it into this envelope."

"Do you know if Miss Ward gave any one else a piece of yellow holly?"

Brendon stared at this strange question. "Not to my knowledge. Why do you ask?"

Train shuffled his feet and looked down again. "It is an exceptionally rare sort of thing," he said untruthfully, "and its effect on Mrs. Jersey was so strange that I wondered if she connected it with any trouble or disaster."

"You made the same remark before," said Brendon dryly. "and we could arrive at no conclusion. But, in any case, I don't see that Miss Ward giving me the holly has anything to do with Mrs. Jersey's alarm—if, indeed, she was alarmed."

"I think she was," said Train decisively, "and if I were you I would ask Miss Ward why she gave you the holly."

"What would be the sense in that?"

"You might learn why Mrs. Jersey was startled."

Brendon laughed and shrugged his shoulders. "Your active brain is building up a perfect romance," he declared. "There can be no connection between Dorothy and Mrs. Jersey."

"Did she know you were coming to stop here on that night?"

"Yes, I told her so when I met her in the park in the morning. It was then that she asked me to afternoon tea."

"And at the afternoon tea she gave you the holly?"

"Yes, you seem to think she did it on purpose that Mrs. Jersey?"

Train interrupted him quickly. "It is you who are building up a romance."

"What would be the sense in that?"

"You might learn why Mrs. Jersey was startled."

Brendon laughed and shrugged his shoulders. "Your active brain is building up a perfect romance," he declared. "There can be no connection between Dorothy and Mrs. Jersey."

"And at the afternoon tea she gave you the holly?"

Brendon, with a shrug. "However, there is nothing more to be said. My advice to you is to hold your tongue lest we should both get into trouble."

The two parted, Leonard to pack up and Brendon to journey with his bag for Kensington. Both men were conscious of a relief when they took leave of each other.

Of course the economy of the mansion was considered when the crime was committed. But, thanks to the firm handling of Miss Bull, who now took the reins which had fallen from the hands of madame, a few days put a different complexion on affairs. Margery knew where her aunt kept the money, and Miss Bull made several of the boarders behindhand pay up. Thus there was enough money to go on with, and Miss Bull decided to wait until after the funeral before deciding what she intended to do herself. When Mrs. Jersey was buried her lawyer made his appearance with the will. It was read to Margery, and Miss Bull stopped beside the poor girl as the only friend she had in the world. The will was short and concise, as it seemed that there was very little to leave. The lawyer read it and then looked at Margery to hear what she had to say.

"You do exactly what you like, dear Miss Bull," said Margery, rising, and then turned to the lawyer. "Let Miss Bull do exactly as she likes. I leave all in her hands."

"The most sensible thing you can do," said the legal adviser under his breath, and when Margery had left the room he turned to the old maid. "Is she an idiot?"

"By no means. But she is not very clever. I have taken a great interest in her, as, to tell you the truth, Mr. James, she was badly treated by her aunt."

"It is lucky she has such a friend," said Mr. James.

"About this will," said Miss Bull, laying one thin finger on the document. "Madame leaves to Margery Watson, her niece, the money in the green box in her sitting room and also her jewels."

"What interest had he in Mrs. Jersey?" asked Miss Bull, scenting a scandal, and her eyes brightening.

"I can't tell you that, and if I could I would not."

"Quite right. I beg your pardon for asking, but you see, in the interest of that poor girl, I wish to know exactly how matters stand."

"They stand as I tell you," said James, and he rose to go. "I have nothing more to do in the matter, and my connection with the late Mrs. Jersey ceases here."

"One moment," said Miss Bull quietly. "What of the furniture?"

"That is also the property of Lord Derrington. He bought the house as it stood from the executor of the last owner, Mr. Anthony Lockwood, fifteen years ago. Mrs. Jersey wished to set up a boarding house, so Lord Derrington placed her in here. Every stick in the place belongs to him. Should Miss Watson leave, she goes with the jewels, the money in the green box and with her deceased aunt's clothes."

"A very poor outfit to start life on at her age," said Miss Bull, rising in her own manner. "By the way, Mr. James, what is the name of the late Mr. Lockwood's executor?"

"Roger Trevelyan," replied the lawyer, looking rather surprised. "Why do you ask?"

"For my own satisfaction, Mr. James. If no one else will assist this poor girl I shall do so. Good day."

So far as James was personally concerned, he heard no more of the little woman. Miss Bull collected the boarders in the drawing room after dinner and made a speech. She said that it was Margery Watson's intention to keep on the house and that the terms would be as before. If any chose to stop there would be welcome, but those who decided to go could have their bills made out at once. Having thus met as the mouthpiece of Margery, Miss Bull took the girl away to the sitting room of the late Mrs. Jersey, the very one in which the tragedy had taken place.

"Good child," said Miss Bull. "Lord Derrington is the owner of this house, and he leased it to your aunt by the year—a very strange arrangement, for which there ought to be some explanation. I am going to seek it from Lord Derrington. With regard to the annuity—"

"What annuity?"

"I forget. You don't know about that. Well, there is no need that you should. But it seems that Lord Derrington allowed your late aunt an annuity of £200 a year. I don't know the reason why he did so, and as such reason is not pertinent to matters in hand, I do not wish to know, but the annuity must have been paid to your aunt."

"Yes, for many years I have been with my aunt. She was my only relative, dear Miss Bull."

"All the better," said Miss Bull in her own way. "Well, Margery, I shall see if I can get Lord Derrington to renew the lease to you, and I shall be your secretary. With the money in hand—I have counted it, and with that in the bank it amounts to £200—we can continue the boarding house. A few of the boarders will go, but many will remain, as they will not get anywhere so cheap a place. You will be the nominal head of the house, but in reality I shall manage. Do you agree?"

"I am your slave," cried Margery, with melodramatic intensity.

"You are my friend," said Miss Bull, her thin lips relaxing. "I am a lonely woman, Margery, though I still have a surviving sister, her lips tightened again as she said this, and I love you, my dear, for your goodness. Well, we shall keep on the boarding house."

From that moment Miss Bull was in charge of the Amelia square establishment. Whatever means she used to induce Lord Derrington to consent, she certainly managed to get the lease renewed in Margery's name. Some of the boarders went, but others came in their place.

must have. It is not likely that Lord Derrington will continue it to you."

She paused and looked at the girl. "Your parents are dead, I believe, Margery?"

"Yes. For many years I have been with my aunt. She was my only relative, dear Miss Bull."

"All the better," said Miss Bull in her own way. "Well, Margery, I shall see if I can get Lord Derrington to renew the lease to you, and I shall be your secretary. With the money in hand—I have counted it, and with that in the bank it amounts to £200—we can continue the boarding house. CHAPTER V.

EVERY one who was any one knew the Honorable Mrs. Ward. She was a fully haired, full of life, a woman, more like a Dresden china shepherdess than a mere human being. Nothing could be prettier than her face and figure, and nothing more engaging than her manners. With her yellow hair, her charming face and her melting blue eyes she managed to hold her own against younger women. The late Mr. Ward, Lord Ransome's son, had been a fast young man, devoted to the turf and to his pretty wife. But he was killed when riding in a steeplechase two years after his marriage and left his widow alone in the world with one daughter for consolation in her affliction. Mrs. Ward, being in want of money—for her deceased father had been a general with nothing but his pay—played her cards so well with regard to her father-in-law that he allowed her a good income and thought she was the most perfect of women. But Lord Ransome was the only one of the family who thought so, for the other relatives thought rather shy of the pretty, pleading widow.

Not that Mrs. Ward minded. She characterized the women as frumps and the men as fools, and, being enough to live on comfortably, set up a house in Curzon street. It was thought that she would marry again, and probably she would have done so had a sufficiently rich husband with a title been forthcoming. But somehow no one would venture ever name Mrs. Ward's way, and as time went on she chose to assume the role of a devoted mother and, as she pleased it, to live again in her daughter's. This was quite wrong, as Dorothy Ward was a still serious minded girl of nineteen, not given to coquetry, and was one who was anxious to marry a husband with kind rather than with money. How frivolous little Mrs. Ward came to have such a daughter no one ever could make out. She resembled her mother neither in face nor in manner nor in tastes. Mrs. Ward once lamented that Dorothy was such a different girl to manage, which meant that Dorothy had refused several good matches and had declined to be guided entirely by her mother's opinion. When the Earl of Summerfield proposed and was not accepted Mrs. Ward was furious. But Dorothy said steadily that she would never marry a brute with a title.

"You'll marry any one I choose," said Mrs. Ward when the two were discussing the matter.

"Certainly not Lord Summerfield," rejoined Dorothy steadily.

"And certainly not that penniless George Brendon," retorted her mother. "You shall not throw yourself away on him."

"He is a good man and a clever man, and a man whom any woman might be proud of winning, mother."

"And a man with no money and no position. Who is he? What is his family? No one ever heard of him."

"You shall never see me the Countess of Summerfield. I know all about that man. He is bad and dissipated."

Dorothy respected as well as loved George Brendon and every time she met him grew to admire and love him more. Mrs. Ward became quite exasperated and redoubled her efforts to shake Dorothy of the "creature," as she called Brendon. She took to praising him on all occasions and sometimes asked him to dinner. At the same time she constantly abused young Walter Vane, who was Lord Derrington's grandson and heir. He was the man she wished Dorothy to marry, as one day he would have a title and fifteen thousand a year. But in spite of this Machiavellian policy Dorothy still continued to love George and expressed a hearty dislike for Walter Vane, whom she characterized as a "weakling."

"You would marry me to the price of darkness himself if it suited your purpose," said Dorothy, from which speech it will be seen that Miss Ward had small respect for her fascinating mother.

The two did not assimilate, as their dispositions were so different. Mrs. Ward complained that Dorothy was too pugnacious, and Dorothy found the frivolous world in which her mother moved dull beyond words. It so happened that Dorothy stayed mostly at home or went out with one of her aunts, who was something of her type, while Mrs. Ward engaged herself at Hurlingham and Monte Carlo.

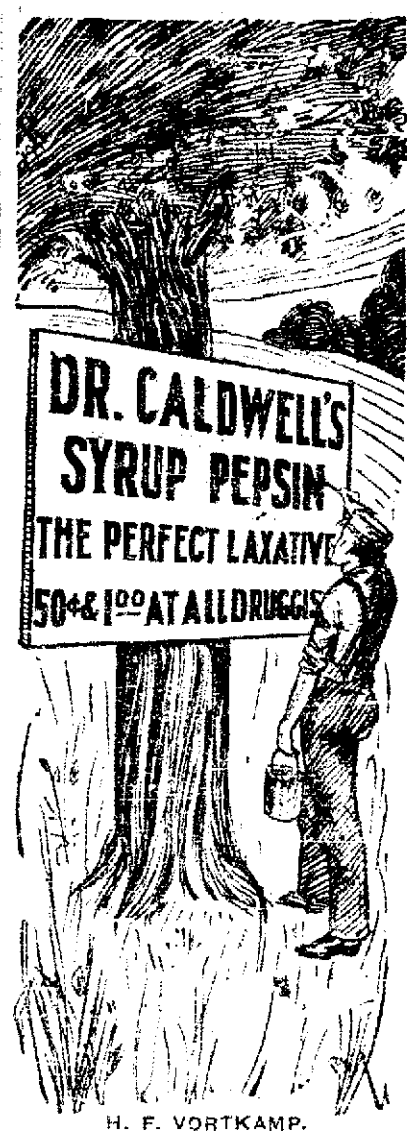

"Things were in this position when the murder of Mrs. Jersey took place," Dorothy read about it in the papers.

and, knowing that George had gone to stop in the house with Train, was extremely anxious to hear particulars. She wrote to his Kensington address, asking him to call, but received no reply. Then she saw that he gave evidence at the inquest, and two days later George made his appearance at the Curzon street house. Mrs. Ward, who had been visible in her expressions regarding Brendon's "there for low company," as she put it, sailed toward him with open arms. She always welcomed Brendon in this bright, girlish, kittenish way, as it was part of her scheme. She thought so very much of her scheme, as it was part of a man would never relish a frivolous mother-in-law and would not get (To be continued.)

Doing at New Water Works Reservoir Today.

The strike of laborers and the heavy downpour of rain combined to put all work out of commission at the new water works reservoir today.

Oh! It's Easy Buying Pianos Now. Whitney & Currier Co.'s 2nd Anniversary Sale is sending them out at a merry clip. We are giving away hundreds of Dollars in profits.

The buyer and the money now. Have you seen the magnificent piano offered in this sale? If not, you have missed seeing the greatest piano bargains ever presented to northern Ohio people.

Thirty-two of them this morning, but they have shrunk to twenty-one. Eleven are gone. People bought them quick. Some even bought for Christmas, and we hold them for future delivery. Four pianos sold today go over one hundred miles from Lima, bought by people visiting here. They saw an opportunity to save a big bunch of dollars. Those who did not intend to buy at all, got the first payment together and saved enough to pay his.

The stock is reducing, and the number is limited to such a number that you can't permit yourself to put it off a day and an hour. If you want to buy at all, come now. If you only want to see a piano sale that is a sale, a regular feast of piano bargain snags, tonight is the night. And this is the place. The Whitney & Currier Co., 211 and 213 West High Street. Store open every night while stocks continue.

Terms that will enable you to pay for a good piano, the price is so small it won't take long, even on small payments.

FAMILIAR HOSPITALITY.

The Way Villagers in the Orient Entertain Passing Strangers.

The villagers who entertain the stranger in their houses naturally enough expect him to talk to them, for thus only can he give them the return they anticipate for their hospitality. As a general rule they will accept no remuneration for the food and shelter they give, but they do expect payment for the feed of the animals.

The conversation one has to carry on with the host and the other villagers who drop in to see and pay their respects to the stranger is entertaining, and even amusing as long as one is a novice in the country, because it is unsophisticated prattle, such as one must have heard in Europe in the middle ages. One unflattering topic is the roundness of the world, the negative side of the question being always defended. They cannot believe that the sun remains stationary, for why should they disregard the evidence of their own eyes, which shows them that it does move across the vault of heaven? They ask you how much tribute your countrymen pay to their padishah (whom we wrongly call sultan), whose foot is upon the neck of all nations, as they firmly believe. They inquire minutely into your business at home and your reasons for travel in their country, etc. They handle with childlike joy and amusement your rifle and revolver, your knife, pen, pencils, your helmet and clothing, and the women can never have enough of feeling and fondling your socks, which are more evenly and closely knit than their backwoods homemade article.

The most subtle to an examination of this kind wherever one stops, often several times a day. Finally it pulls on the traveler himself he is grieved with the patience of Job, and from that moment he tries to avoid village hospitality. A further reason for such avoidance is the fact that the acceptance of the hospitality of villagers makes it impossible for the traveler to put his durable form in his road notes of the day while matters are still fresh in his mind. For the scientific traveler or the archaeologist this is one of the most annoying. Now, among things writing in the house of your entertaining would simply be to waste and a foolish return for the hospitality, but Arabs regard the mere gift of a shawl or a shawl, and will not permit it at all.

THE STEAMER STEWARD.

A Busy Man Who Carries a Heavy Load of Responsibilities.

The comfort of the passenger depends perhaps more on the vigilance and executive ability of the chief steward than any one else. He it is who orders the supplies for the voyage, has a minute knowledge of what the state rooms and refreshment contain and sees that the menu for each meal is ample, well cooked and deftly served. The minute arrangements in port for the entire trip, plans each day's meals at sea and with the assistance of the other crew gets up the menu card. You will find him increasing in his office, just off the grand staircase, looking up his books and records, but during the rest of the day he is all over the ship, now taking a look at the stores, now below to see that provisions and provisions are rightly served out to the cooks, now inspecting the refrigerators to note the temperature, and again watching the butchers with precise knowledge of how meats shall be cut and seeing that they are delivered to the cooks on time and in the right quantities.

All these things he is responsible for. But that is by no means all. He must also keep a minute record of all transactions of this sort and must have a watchful eye upon the passengers to note that his attentions among the men are giving them prompt and cheerful service. He has a record of every passenger traveling with him and all the details connected with his journey. If you consult with him last year or twenty years ago he can refer to his books and tell you the date of the voyage, its duration, your room and seat and table and just what the stewards served to you.—Booklover's Magazine.

Blamed It on the Mountain Air.

A new guest arrived at a New Hampshire farmhouse where a Boston gentleman happened to be holding forth on the piazza. The newcomer was much impressed by the speaker's fluency.

"I declare," he remarked to the landlord, "that man has an extensive vocabulary, hasn't he?"

The landlord was mightily pleased.

"That's so," he said. "That's what mountain air will do for a man. He ain't been 'boarded' with me but two weeks, and I know he must have let his waistband out much as four times."

Waterlogged.

A little girl, when recovering from scarlet fever, drank a great deal of water. Her nerves were weak, and she cried for slight causes. "I wouldn't cry," said her mother, as the tears began to come. "How can I help it?" sobbed the child, "when I am so full of water?"

Highly Considerate.

"But, do you think, Richard," questioned his mother, "that the young person will make you the sort of a wife a man like you should seek?"

"Well," he returned nonchalantly, "she'll make me the sort of husband a girl like her should find."—Chicago Journal.

WAS CURED QUICKLY

Rheumatism in Two Severe Cases Mastered in a Few Weeks.

Public Interest Aroused by the Quickness and Completeness of the Cures, and the Remedy Used by Mr. Schroepel and Captain Balfour in Great Demand in the Vicinity of Their Homes.

In the winter of 1892, Mr. Schroepel was attacked by rheumatism of a most pronounced and incapacitating type. So severe was the attack that he was confined to bed and was unable to help himself. The doctor was called in and treated him but without success. He subsequently regained his health, however, by means which he described with great enthusiasm in response to an inquiry for particulars.

After five or six weeks of helpless inactivity and pain," said he, "during which I was receiving visits at even intervals from the doctor, I felt as if I was never well again. About this time my mother, an old lady of eighty years, visited me, and earnestly endeavored to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for my ailment. She declared that she had received great benefit from their use in ridding herself of rheumatic pains even at her advanced age, and she was confident they would help me. At her solicitation I gave up the doctor's treatment, reluctantly, however, and a member of the family was sent to the store to bring along for a supply of the pills, and I began to take them, which I did very steadily."

ROOSEVELT'S PEACE RECORD NO. 4.

February 13, 1899, Mr. Roosevelt, whose known warlike tendencies, while yelling for peace to fool votes at the coming election, in a speech at a Lincoln day banquet in New York said:
"If we ever regard peace as a permanent condition, and feel that we can afford to let the keen, fearless, virile qualities of heart and body sink into disease, we will prepare the way for inevitable and shameful disaster in the future. . . . The peace which breeds timidity and sloth is a curse and not a blessing."

JEFFERSONIAN SIMPLICITY.

The Indianapolis Sentinel asks that some fellow of investigating turn of mind; one who feels that the constitution and the Declaration of Independence are still the very corner stones of the country's foundation and perpetuity, will answer the following questions:
1. How many times did Roosevelt mention the constitution in his speech and letter of acceptance?
2. In what connection did Senator Fairbanks mention the constitution in his letter or speech?
3. What republican orator has referred to the constitution of the United States in this campaign and in what connection?
4. Has any republican from Roosevelt down to Overstreet (and that's getting pretty well down) made mention of the Declaration of Independence in this campaign?

How does President Roosevelt reconcile his ante-election promise that he will ask the powers to join in another peace conference at The Hague, with the weekly launching of a battleship or protected cruiser, or with his "peace record" which is daily running on the editorial page of this paper?

When Fairbanks opened his spell-binding at Brigham, Utah, yesterday, he addressed a fair sized crowd from a platform filled with members of the Mormon church, who acted as vice presidents of the meeting. In this connection, it will be remembered that for political reasons, the administration hung up the fight against Elder Smoot holding his senatorial position, until after the election. That he will then be allowed to retain it, is conceded particularly if Utah casts her electoral vote for Roosevelt. What think the Christian men and women, who believe in the sanctity of the home, of such use of administrative power?

There are other issues than those the Republican-Gazette is injecting into this campaign. What matters it how many suits of clothes the democratic candidate for president wears, so long as he is not a swash-buckler? What matters it how many good horses he has so long as he does not get away from Jeffersonian simplicity and take them riding in an elevator? What matters it, if he does ride in a launch, so long as it is not extravagantly paid for by the government, which should mean the people?

What matters it if Judge Parker does travel in a train, so long as he does not accept passes to the value of fifty thousand dollars as the present chief executive has done in his three years of presidential life?

Jeffersonian simply does not necessarily consist in the denial to oneself of the comforts of life, but one large element of that democratic simplicity is to secure the comforts of life honestly, to use them with discretion, and not to flaunt oneself before the people as does the present vain-glorious, spectacular president. Jeffersonian simplicity began with the framing of the constitution. The democratic party came into being coincident with the constitution, and with that still back of it, it goes before the people today with a candidate for president who reveres, honors and obeys the constitution in every detail, asking for support for him in order that the imperialistic tendencies of the present administration may be headed off, and the government placed back where it belongs—in the hands of the people.

A new theory that is proving successful in the cure of coughs, lung and bronchial affections is offered in Bee's Laxative Honey and Tar. This remedy cuts the mucus, beats the membranous lining of the throat, lungs and bronchial tubes; wards off pneumonia and strengthens the system generally. ADDITIONAL SOCIETY.
Last Wednesday evening, Mrs. J. S. Smith entertained the Hiawatha club at her home on north Collett street, progressive dinner being the game of the evening. Before leaving, the assembled guests were served with a dainty luncheon. All report having spent a very pleasant evening.

HOW TO PRONOUNCE IT.
There has been considerable argument as to the correct way of pronouncing the name of De Aviers, the manufacturer of the famous Imperial Face Cream that prevents barber's itch. It is pronounced as if spelling De Avours, with light accent on the A and double o being pronounced the same as in poor.

Traveling Man Tells a Thin Yarn About a Gun Play Hold-up.

Boy Tramp Claims to Have Been Robbed on a Freight Train Between Toledo and This City. Mayor's Court.

John Smith was the old familiar name given by an 18-year-old tramp who appeared at the police station at 7:30 o'clock last night and asked to be given a night's lodging. He stated that his widowed mother had recently died in Pittsburgh, and that he was trying to make his way to either New Orleans or Hot Springs, where he could obtain employment in hotels. He had about $20 in money, when he left Pittsburgh, but traveled on freight trains in order that he could save his money to buy food and lodging. He claims that he left Toledo on a freight train yesterday afternoon, and that three tramps, who climbed into a box car with him, robbed him of his money, a gold watch and an overcoat. The men then jumped out of the car and told him if he followed them they would blow his head off. Smith claims he told a brakeman of his loss when the train reached Deshler, but made no other report of the robbery until he reached this city.

One Less Plausible.
A stranger who claimed to be a traveling representative of a Chicago lighting concern, called at the police station about 6:30 o'clock last night and related a robbery story that the police absolutely refuse to believe. He stated that his name was McDonough, that he was stopping at the Norval, and that after he had walked home with a young woman who led him a few blocks out on west High street, she left him and entered a house, and immediately he was confronted by a man with a gun. The man did not search all of his pockets, but simply rammed his fingers into one vest pocket and extracted therefrom the sum of $125. He was asked to give the denominations of the bills and he did so, but they were such that the total did not tally with that which he had claimed to have lost. He also told the names of the men who had sent the money to him through the mails, but could not give their addresses. Chief MRB devoted a couple of hours to an investigation of the case, and then passed it up as a "phony" story.

Youth Bound Over.
O'Dell Marchand, a 15-year-old lad who has been employed as a pin boy at the Brunswick bowling alleys, was arrested by Patrolman Kelly last night, charged with stealing four boxes of cigars, of the value of $10, and the property of proprietors Neff. When arraigned before the mayor this morning the boy confessed that he had taken three boxes of 5-cent cigars and had sold them for 75 cents per box. He also implicated three other boys in the services of thefts committed at the bowling alleys last summer. He was bound over to probate court.

FRIE ROAD
Appears as Plaintiff in Injunction Suit,
And Asks That Lima Telephone Company Remove Certain Overhead Wires.

The Chicago & Erie railroad in a petition for an injunction against the Lima Telegraph and Telephone Co., questions the constitutionality of a section of the Revised Statutes of Ohio, and asks that the court decide the issue.

The question raised is the right of the defendants to locate overhead wires across the plaintiff's right of way in Perry township, and a mandatory injunction is asked for requiring the defendants to remove the wires and be perpetually enjoined from replacing them until the defendants shall appropriate its right of way from the plaintiffs, and the latter be awarded its compensation and damages for the property thus used.

I was suffering from indigestion, constipation, and a general feeling of weakness. I had lost my appetite and was unable to do my work. I had heard of Chamberlain's Remedy and decided to try it. I took it at once and in a few days I began to feel better. I continued to take it until I was completely cured. I am now able to do my work and feel like a new man. I am sure that Chamberlain's Remedy is the best medicine I have ever used. I will recommend it to all my friends who are suffering from indigestion, constipation, or any of the ailments it cures. ## WARRANT FOR BELIEF THAT KUROPATKIN

Is Strengthening His Left Flank to Meet Japanese Turning Movement, and He May Assume Offensive Movements.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 8, 1:30 p. m.—The meagerness of the news from the front is increasing the uncertainty regarding the developments. There is good warrant for the belief that General Kuropatkin is strengthening his left flank to meet the Japanese turning movement, his troops occupying a triangle, from Fushan to Mukden and Tie Pass. Over three hundred guns have arrived at the front and the activity of the Russian skirmishers below the Hun river creates the impression that Kuropatkin may contemplate assuming the offensive. The war office, however, gives no encouragement of this idea, though naturally, if such a move is contemplated the war office could not be expected to admit it.

GENERAL
Kissed the Colors and Bowled to Each Division.
Kharkoff, Russia, Oct. 8.—A touching scene was witnessed here when General Gragomiroff, former governor general of Kiev, bid farewell today to the famous Fourteenth division, which he led across the Danube at the time of the Russo-Turkish war. The old veteran was so moved that he could hardly speak. Finally he gave an order for the division to form around him in a hollow square, and addressed the troops, wishing them success and expressing the hope that they will do their duty as well in the far east as their fathers did on the Danube. He also advised the soldiers to stand by each other and sacrifice

EIGHTY-FIRST

Ohio Synod of the Reformed Church in U. S.

In Session at Bluffton, Indiana. R. V. E. E. Young, of Lima, a Member.

Bluffton, Ind., Oct. 8.—The Ohio Synod of the Reformed church in the United States opened her eighty-first session in the First Reformed church in this city Thursday morning. The services were opened by the Rev. J. W. Barber, of Fulton, Mich., who delivered the invocation. The scripture was read by Rev. C. E. Ewing, of Barberton, O., and prayer was offered by the Rev. A. C. Shuman, of Sycamore, Ohio.

The opening sermon was preached by the retiring president, Rev. A. E. Baichly, D. D., of Tiffin, O. His theme was "The Need of Evangelization in the Church of the Present Day." It was a most scholarly effort and also struck the keynote of the Synod, which will be a distinctively evangelistic session.

After the sermon the Synod was constituted with prayer, and the election of new officers took place. Rev. A. K. Zartman, D. D., of Fort Wayne, Ind., was elected president; Rev. H. J. Christman, of Tiffin, vice president. Friday morning session was opened with devotional services, conducted by Rev. Geo. T. N. Beam, of Lake, O., taking as the theme for his address, "The Evangelistic Church." The business consisted of the hearing and making of reports for the standing committees and boards.

The first report was from the board of publication. This report showed the publicational interests at Dayton were in a live and healthy condition. The financial side of the publicational interest showed a handsome balance in the treasury, and a very encouraging outlook.

The report from the board of home missions brought the encouraging news that the home mission work indicates the most hopeful and prosperous aspect for years.

The board of regents of Heidelberg University also showed a very encouraging aspect. The endowment, during the year has grown nearly $200,000. Two new professorships have been added, and provision made for another. The statistical statement showed over 80 per cent of the students are christians, and an increase of students in every department. There was a hearty applause in response to this report and to the cheering and hopeful address of the president, Rev. C. E. Miller, D. D., who is but a year and a half, but of a promise and outlook.

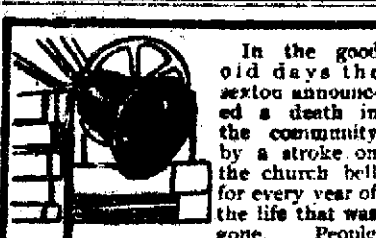

The board of trustees of Theological Seminary also made a report indicating a vigorous growth in all lines, and a very encouraging report as to her endowment. They also sounded the call of need for young men to consecrate themselves to the ministry, as seen by the report that there are forty churches today within the Ohio Synod who have no regular pastors.

There were nearly 300 members of the Synod in attendance at Friday noon, consisting of ministers and lay delegates. The music of the Synod is in charge of Rev. H. A. Welker, of Bluffton, Ind., and Prof. L. D. Bluffton, the singing evangelist.

DANGER IN FALL COLDS.

Fall colds are liable to hang on all winter leaving the seeds of pneumonia, bronchitis or consumption. Foley's Honey and Tar cures quickly and prevents serious results. It is old and reliable, tried and tested, safe and sure, contains no opiates and will not constipate. Sold by H. F. Vorkamp, corner Main and North streets.

Monarch over pain. Burns, cuts, sprains, stings. Instant relief. Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. At any drug store.

In the good old days the sexton announced a death in the community by a stroke on the church bell for every year of the life that was gone. People expected, then, to live to old age, and speculation at the first tap of the bell took a narrow range including only those who had lived the allotted time. There is no reason why people should not have the same expectancy of age to-day, except for the neglect and abuse of the one organ on which all the other organs depend—the stomach. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery enables men and women to be strong and healthy, by curing diseases of the stomach (and other organs of digestion and nutrition), which prevent the proper nourishment of the body.

"I had been sick for two years with indigestion and nervous debility, and had taken medicine from my family doctor for a long time without much benefit," writes Mrs. W. H. Trebles of Lockport, N. C. "I was induced by my husband to consult Dr. Pierce by letter. You advised me to take 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Favorite Prescription,' which I did, and to my great surprise, after taking six bottles I was cured."

The Medical Adviser in paper covers, is sent free for 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

HAIR TELLS CHARACTER.

Color of Hair Said to Indicate a Person's Temperament.

Many people believe that blonde or light hair denotes affection and dark hair constancy. A person without hair is not devoid of character; far from it. The disposition of the average bald-headed man is to show such solicitude for the welfare of others, that he neglects himself. A germ cancer killed Prof. Rebourdau of Paris, France, inoculated a rabbit with Dandruff germs, causing it to become totally bald in five weeks' time. To rid the scalp of these dangerous germs it is necessary to apply Newbro's Hairdye.

"Destroy the cause—you remove the effect." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Hairdye Co., Detroit, Mich.

GRADUAL DECLINE

This is the fate of sufferers from Kidney trouble, as the disease is so insidious that often people have serious Kidney trouble without knowing the real cause of their illness, as diseased kidneys allow the impurities to stay in the system and attack the other organs. This accounts for the many different symptoms of Kidney Disease.

You begin to feel better at once when taking as it stimulates the heart, increases the circulation and invigorates the whole system. It strengthens the urinary organs and gives you new life and vigor.

Chicago Business Man Cured

Foley & Co., Chicago, Gentlemen:—About a year ago my health began to fail, I lost flesh and never felt well. The doctor thought I had stomach and liver trouble, but I became convinced that my kidneys were the cause of my ill health and commenced taking FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE. It increased my appetite and made me feel stronger, and the annoying symptoms disappeared. I am now sound and well.—J. K. Horn, 1354 Diversity Bldg., Chicago, June 11, 1902. Cured His Wife

E. C. Watkins, sexton of the Methodist Church, Springfield, Pa., writes: "My wife has been very bad with kidney trouble and tried several doctors without benefit. After taking one bottle of FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE was much better, and was completely cured after taking four bottles."

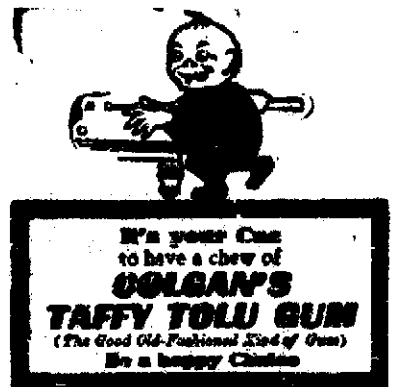

One Bottle Cured Him
A. H. Davis, Mt. Sterling, Ia., writes: "I was troubled with kidney complaint for about two years, but one-dollar bottle of FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE effected a permanent cure."

Robbed The Grave.
 A startling incident is narrated by John Oliver of Philadelphia, as follows: "I was in an awful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite, growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Then I was advised to use Electric Bitters. To my great joy, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they robbed the grave of another victim. No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents, guaranteed, at H. F. Vorkamp's drug store, corner Main and North streets."

Some Seasonable Advice.
 It may be a piece of superfluous advice to urge people at this season of the year to lay in a supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is almost sure to be needed before winter is over, and much more prompt and satisfactory results are obtained when taken as soon as a cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system, which can only be done by keeping the remedy at hand. This remedy is so widely known and so altogether good that no one should hesitate about buying it in preference to any other. It is for sale by all druggists.

THE STAGE.
 Tuesday—Ward & Vokes in "A Pair of Pinks."
 Wednesday—"A Little Outcast."
 Friday—"Rudolph and Adolph."

Ward & Vokes will show as the second edition of their fun furnisher, "A Pair of Pinks," at the Faurot opera house next Thursday night. The announcement that this popular duo of comedians have a new edition of last season's vehicle to carry the always excellent company surrounding them is a guarantee that a genuine laughing treat will be found when they come. "A Pair of Pinks" requires the services of a company of 55 people, for of course the big chorus which always surrounds "Percy and Harold" is a requisite in their style of entertainment. "The Pinks" as played by Ward & Vokes, are two Pinkerton detectives, who have their own way of how crime should be ferreted out and treated. It is barely possible that these ideas would not be concurred in by some of our famous sleuths, but it promises to be funny to see the unfolding. Of course it is musical and is filled with what are called "vaudeville stunts" by the clever people which E. D. Stair has engaged to surround his popular stars. It is not claimed to possess any great amount of dramatic worth, but it is positively promised to be funny, full of new music, especially written for it and never before heard, staged expensively and dressed beyond all effort ever before made by this enterprising management. Some of the new musical numbers are "The Josie," "For Our Country, Our U. S. A.," "Diddle-diddle-dum," "Take a Ride in My Canoe," "As a Friend," "Songbirds A-Go-Go South," "Don't Say Goodbye," "We'll All Come Tramping in Behind," and "Bossy." The chorus of pretty girls this year will set a mark for some of the big comic opera companies to shoot at. All in all, this year's Ward & Vokes production promises to be their best ever.

"A Little Outcast."
 This well-known and popular melodrama, which has proven a genuine success in all the large cities during the past season, will be the offering at the Faurot next Wednesday afternoon and evening. The wealth of special scenery and mechanical effects that has tended in a great measure to insure its success, will be used in the local production. The management make a point of presenting the production in its entirety in all towns where "A Little Outcast" is presented. Many of the present cast have appeared in their respective roles during the entire life of this popular play.
 Master Robbie Young, five years old, and little Edwin Young, eight years old, will be seen as Little Paul and Maggie. They are acknowledged to be two of the youngest and brightest children before the public. The entire cast is composed of capable people, and a finished and pleasing performance is guaranteed.

Broadhurst & Carrie will present that merry farce comedy, "Rudolph and Adolph," at the Faurot opera house next Friday evening, October 14th. This will furnish a strictly high-class offering in the comedy line, and one that will prove most satisfying to the general public as well as theatre-goers. If the well seasoned judgment of capable critics may be taken as a criterion, "Rudolph and Adolph" has been one of the greatest laughing successes in all of the larger cities during the past three seasons, and the same standard of excellence fixed by its production in New York, Boston, Chicago, Philadelphia, &c., will be continued.

SPENT MORE THAN $1,000.
 "My wife suffered from lung trouble for fifteen years, she tried a number of doctors and spent over $1,000 without relief," writes W. W. Baker of Plainville, Neb. "She became very low and lost all hope. A friend recommended Foley's Honey and Tar and, thanks to this great remedy, it saved her life. She enjoys better health than she has known in ten years." Refuse substitutes.
 Sold by H. F. Vorkamp, corner Main and North streets.

Young women may avoid much sickness and pain, says Miss Alma Pratt, if they will only have faith in the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I feel it my duty to tell all young women how much Lydia E. Pinkham's wonderful Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was completely run down, unable to attend school, and did not care for any kind of society, but now I feel like a new person, and have gained seven pounds of flesh in three months. I recommend it to all young women who suffer from female weakness."—Miss ALMA PRATT, Holly, Mich.

FREE MEDICAL ADVICE TO YOUNG GIRLS.
 All young girls at this period of life are earnestly invited to write Mrs. Pinkham for advice; she has guided in a motherly way hundreds of young women; her advice is freely and cheerfully given, and her address is Lynn, Mass.

Judging from the letters she is receiving from so many young girls Mrs. Pinkham believes that our girls are often pushed altogether too near the limit of their endurance nowadays in our public schools and seminaries. Nothing is allowed to interfere with studies, the girl must be pushed to the front and graduated with honors; often physical collapse follows, and it takes years to recover the lost vitality—often it is never recovered.

A Young Chicago Girl Saved from Despair.
 "DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I wish to thank you for the help and benefit I have received through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills. When I was about seventeen years old I suddenly seemed to lose my usual good health and vitality. Father said I studied too hard, but the doctor thought different and prescribed tonics, which I took by the quart without relief. Reading one day in the paper of Mrs. Pinkham's great cures, and finding the symptoms described answered mine, I decided I would give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. I did not say a word to the doctor; I bought it myself and took it according to directions regularly for two months, and I found that I gradually improved, and that all pains left me, and I was my old self once more. — LILLIE E. SINCLAIR, 17 E. 22d St., Chicago Ill."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the one sure remedy to be relied upon at this important period in a young girl's life; with it she can go through with courage and safety the work she must accomplish, and fortify her physical well being so that her future life may be insured against sickness and suffering.

$5000 FORFEIT If we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

Married Women

Every woman covets a shapely, pretty figure, and many of them deplore the loss of their girlish forms after marriage. The bearing of children is often destructive to the mother's shapeliness. All of this can be avoided, however, by the use of Mother's Friend before baby comes, as this great liniment always prepares the body for the strain upon it, and preserves the symmetry of her form. Mother's Friend overcomes all the danger of child-birth, and carries the expectant mother safely through this critical period without pain. It is woman's greatest blessing. Thousands gratefully tell of the benefit and relief derived from the use of this wonderful remedy. Sold by all druggists at $1.00 per bottle. Our little book, telling all about this liniment, will be sent free.

when this was not possible, places in the immediate vicinity of the usual voting places were secured.

These places of registration will be open on registration days as follows:
From 8 a. m. to 2 p. m. and from 4

TRAMP

Was the Unconscious Agent

That Kept the

Hetrick Block From Destruction.

A Little Incident That Does Not Add Any Glory to Police Department,

But the Delay in This Instance
Was a Fortunate One, and the Tramp Became the Hero of the Hour.

All unconscious of any good intentions, a tramp, who was much the worse for a load of liquor, was the saving of the Hetrick block from total destruction Thursday night, when that building caught on fire. In searching for a place to sleep off his jag he stumbled up the stairway leading to the flats on the second floor, and lay down in the hall. His sleep proved to be a restless one, and he carried on a conversation with himself in tones so loud that tenants in the block were awakened, and one of the ladies set about to have him removed by the arm of the law.

She summoned up courage enough to pass the helpless form that blocked her way to an apartment in which the telephone hung, but here she met with a stumbling block which marks a degree of noticeable inefficiency on the part of the police service, especially when promptness is required. To her request for an officer she received the reply that there was no one on hand to send. If it had been a case of hold up or assault, the result would have been the same, and a desperado could have carried out his design without fear of molestation by a blue-coat.

The lady in question waited a quarter of an hour before again asking for assistance, but the result was the same as before, and the tramp in the meantime kept up his drunken monologue. While in this attitude of suspense another occupant of the same apartment, who was up and waiting, screamed that the building was on fire.
The flames at that moment were rushing with a roar up the ventilator and smoke came pouring into the rooms.

The lady at the phone promptly turned her attention to the fire department, and this time she got a response as prompt as the other was belated.
And strange to relate, with the arrival of the fire brigade came enough police to arrest a regiment. The tramp had saved the building and perhaps lives also, as the chief of the fire department says a few moments of delay would have meant the total destruction of the building.
